We invite you to join us for the round-table discussion/presentation of the inaugural hard copy issue of the Caucasus Edition: Journal of Conflict Transformation. Titled “The South Caucasus and Its Neighborhood. From Politics and Economics to Group Rights”, the issue is a result of the joint work of over 30 scholar-practitioners and analysts from Turkey, Russia, Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, as well as Nagorno-Karabakh and Abkhazia, on the topics of regional and global actors in the South Caucasus, the socio-economic benefits of regional economic cooperation, the consequences of the politics of isolation in the region, ethnic groups and conflicts, gender and minority rights as instruments of conflict transformation, transnational networks and federative solutions for conflict resolution in the region, and more.

Speakers:

Philip Gamaghelyan, co-managing editor of the Caucasus Edition, Adjunct Professor at School for International Service at American University of Washington, DC

Sergey Rumyansev, co-managing editor of the Caucasus Edition, PhD of Sociology and Member of the Board of the Center for Independent Social Research e.V. Berlin

Sevil Huseynova, co-managing editor of the Caucasus Edition, PhD Candidate at the Institute for European Ethnology of the HU Berlin

Maria Karapetyan, co-managing editor of the Caucasus Edition, Development Director of the Imagine Center for Conflict Transformation

The discussion will be held in English.
